I.A.S.C. Participates in Statewide Seminar

Five members of the Illinois Association of Student Councils' executive board attended a seminar on August 21 in Springfield.

Officers attending the meeting were Bill Carlson, Bill Brown, Mr. Ed Phelps, Mr. Reese Hoskin, and Mr. Gary ZumMallen. Also attending the seminar for the IASC was Sue Klyber of Elk Grove Village.

The seminar was co-sponsored by the Illinois Office of Education and the Student Advisory Committee to the state board of education, and was held in the IOE building.

The purpose of the seminar was for student organizations in the Illinois educational system to exchange ideas with professional adult associations on student involvement in government. Also the seminar was intended to help student associations to develop a working relationship with adult associations in the state.

Other organizations represented at the seminar were members of the Illinois Office of Education, the Illinois High School Association, the Illinois Principal's Association, the Illinois Association of School Boards, and the Illinois Federation of Teachers.

Each organization gave a description of what it does, the activities connected with it, and a brief history of the association.

For the IASC, Mr. Phelps, the executive secretary, gave a history of the past eight years of the IASC. Bill Carlson then continued with the presentation, telling about the activities and showing a slide show featuring some of them. He also said that in the future, he would like to see the formation of the Legislative Committee and the distribution of monthly information packets.

Ken Midkiff of the IOE said that some of the things he would like to see happen in the near future include the increasing of the number of students on the SAC from the present seven to thirteen. Another future projection was that the student intern program of the IOE would be expanded.

Kendall Christiansen, former IASC president and presently chairperson of the SAC told the background of the SAC — how it was begun and how the members were selected.

David Murdy, a student intern of the IOE, told about the Student Government Catalog being printed and that it is to be distributed in January, one to every student council member in Illinois.

The professional organizations told how students are involved with their associations and what their policies dealing with student involvement are.

In the afternoon, the group informally discussed mutual problems and concerns of the organizations, ranging from school attendance to having students and student advisory committees on local school boards.

Workshop Successful

The first attempt of the IASC to conduct an orientation workshop for inexperienced freshmen and sophomore council members was a big success, according to an evaluation taken after it was over. Nearly all of the delegates said they gained a lot of valuable information that would help them in the future while on student council.

Fifty-two delegates showed up for the workshop at East Bay Camp held on September 19-21. None had registered previously, so the staff had no idea of how many to expect. They were pleased with the response, after considering the short notice given schools and limited publicity for the workshop.

Friday night, the delegates met Mr. Phelps, consultant for the workshop, and the other state officers who attended the workshop.

The workshop was structured in several small groups, each with 10-14 students. The groups were imaginary student councils for imaginary schools. For practice in getting business accomplished in student council meetings, the groups were given the task of coming up with a name, mascot, and colors for their school.

At general sessions, the delegates learned about such things as basic parliamentary procedure, agendas for meetings, and the technique of brainstorming in a group.

In the council groups, they learned about the areas of authority for councils, constitutions, and also reflected on and studied in more detail what was said in general sessions.

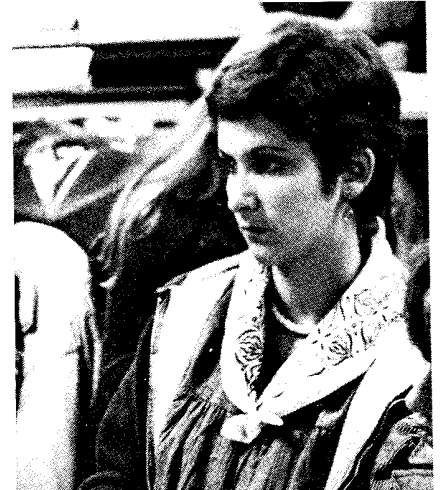

There was also a swap-shop period when they could exchange ideas for activities their student councils at home could be doing.

Also included in the workshop was an evening of films on role playing and group dynamics. The delegates were allowed to test what they learned in group dynamics before they left the workshop Sunday. They took the NASA test, which demonstrates the old proverb, "Two heads are better than one."

Since people only remember a small percentage of what they hear, an information packet outlining most of the material covered in the workshop was given to each delegate. Included in the packet was an outline for a constitution, and a chart of motions used in a meeting and information explaining these motions.

The staff of the workshop was of the opinion that it was very worthwhile and successful. The only thing which was felt should be changed if the workshop is continued to be held in the future is the time of the year. Many felt it was too early in the school year because many student councils were just becoming organized, or all of the representatives were not yet selected. It was suggested that it might be better to hold the workshop in October next year.

Carlson's Corner

BY BILL CARLSON, I.A.S.C. President

Hello and welcome once again to another installment of Carlson's Corner, the literary critic's playground! Before I get into this column, I want to again extend my congratulations and the congratulations of the Executive Board to Brenda Harlen, the new IASC Secretary from Lincoln Sr. High in East St. Louis, and Kevin Ritter, the new IASC Press-Secretary from Kinmundy-Alma High School in Kinmundy, IL. I want to thank all the people who applied for the positions, and let me assure you that it wasn't easy for us to reach a final decision. The applicants were all very highly qualified, and I hope they will remain active in student council.

I've been asked by our editor to make this a more opinionated kind of a column. Well, that's fine with me, because it will probably be a lot more interesting for me to write. I think it's important to point out though, that the content of this column should not necessarily be regarded as executive board policy or feelings. The feelings expressed are my own opinions and should be considered as such.

I wanted to talk a bit about the legislative committee, which, due to board action at the September meeting, will be a functioning committee. In the past, the students of Illinois had no real way of knowing what bills affecting them were before the legislature. With the advent of the legislative committee, we will attempt to keep you informed of what does affect you and what is current. We will do this through articles in this newspaper which will give the facts on certain bills. We will probably list the names of legislators and representatives, so you know who is representing you.

One thing that was discussed by the executive board was the possibility of having the conference on student views become a function of the legislative committee in years to come. I think that is a fantastic idea, and a great opportunity to let our feelings regarding legislation be heard in mass.

All of these activities are fine, but the big thing that will determine how effective this committee will be is you. You, the students of Illinois, will have to take the initiative to read and digest the information in the REPORTER regarding legislation. All of us must be willing to take the time to express ourselves through letters to our representatives in Springfield.

You will have to take this action on your own, or the legislative committee will be no more than a farce, and will probably have little impact if any. I hope you do care about the things that affect you, because if you do, then I know you will take the initiative. Let's all be heard.

If you have any comments or suggestions regarding the committee, or think you might like to participate, get in touch with me. I'll be looking forward to hearing from you.

New Officers Appointed

At the Sept. 12-14 executive board meeting, there were 9 students interviewed for secretary and 6 for press secretary.

Brenda Harlen from Lincoln Sr. High School in East St. Louis was appointed to the position of Secretary. Brenda is a senior and is active in the IASC. She went to the first summer workshop this summer, and she went to the IASC convention in May and wanted to apply for secretary then, but she didn't have her principal's signature. She also has had experience working in the office of her school.

Kevin Ritter, a senior at Kinmundy-Alma High School was appointed to the position of Press Secretary, and his advisor, James E. Wells, will also serve on the executive board. Kevin had the backing of Kinmundy's administration and student council, and he has had experience working on a yearbook, which should help him in producing the IASC 1975-76 yearbook.

Below are the addresses of the new board members so that they may be placed in each student council's files in case there is reason to contact them.

I.A.S.C. Board Briefs

On Friday afternoon, September 12, the IASC Executive Board divided into two groups and interviewed nine applicants for secretary and six for press secretary at Prospect High School in Mount Prospect.

Saturday morning, the board began its meeting by reviewing two applicants who were selected by the interviewing committees for each position. The board then voted by secret ballot. Chosen were Brenda Harlen for secretary and Kevin Ritter for press secretary.

Other highlights of the September executive board meeting included:

—Lynn Larson, treasurer, reported a balance of $660.67

—President Bill Carlson reported that the publicity brochure would soon be in final stages. He read the brochure and the board commented on it.

—Phil Hoyt reported that letters to schools about discussion group leaders, and resolutions and credential committee members would be mailed at the beginning of October.

—Ed Pluhar reported the project schools which had been approved; St. Joseph-intermurals, Roanoke-Benson-mini courses, Warren-student involvement, Edwardsville-apaty, and Alton-rights and responsibilities. The board approved the five schools and their topics for projects.

—The board reviewed and revised the 1975-76 budget Lynn Larson had prepared.

—It was passed that the Reporter-

Editor and his advisor would be reimbursed for all district conventions they attend, and if they can not attend one, they may designate another board member who will also be reimbursed.

—Executive secretary Ed Phelps was instructed to have 12,000 sheets of blue stationary printed with the Bicentennial logo, the IASC logo, and state officer's names and addresses.

—It was decided that resolutions committee members will come to the February board meeting at their own expense.

—Lynn Larson reported that she would put the IASC membership roster on Elk Grove's computer.

—Convention secretary Theresa Probst reported suggestions for the themes for the 1976 convention. The board voted on the themes and decided it would be "America and the IASC-A Tradition of Leadership."

—REPORTER-editor Bill Brown reported that a business manager was appointed to solicit ads for the REPORTER.

—Paul Mueller presented prices and styles of tee shirts. The board approved his request for a maximum of $500 to begin his inventory. (See article this issue.)

—Ed Phelps reported that transportation alone by bus to Oregon for the National Conference would be $145.00. He is still checking into the cost of lodging during the trip.

—The board discussed dividing districts because of size and decided to appoint a committee with Phil Hoyt as chairman to propose a policy defining what constitutes a district, and how funds from pre-existing districts should be divided.

—The possibility of making the Conference on Student Views a function of the legislative committee in the future was discussed. It was also discussed that topics on pending legislature could be used for discussion this year at the conference.

Suggestions were made for Linda Fuchs, chairperson of the bicentennial committee, about a possible IASC bicentennial logo, decal, or poster contest.

—The board discussed an idea to have student-principal meetings on a district or regional level.

I.A.S.C. Bicentennial Committee Reports

by Linda Fuchs

Attention! Young, spirited, intelligent humans:
You are needed for the support of the United States' 200th birthday!

One hundred...two hundred....ready or not, here comes the bicentennial year, and we need to celebrate this wonderful occasion. Your ideas were asked for, some response was given, and here is what has been compiled.

To begin with, the IASC Bicentennial Committee, headed by Linda Fuchs from Washington Community High School, has been putting ideas together and we have decided that much time and money would be involved in the projects we would like to execute. The possibility of federal grants and local sponsors is being looked into.

A great deal of money is needed for the project we are presently working on, but all Illinois schools should benefit from it. This project will be a bicentennial packet full of information to guide your own student councils, so that throughout the school year of '76 all schools will have guidelines to begin their own projects. It is a big step and the committee needs everyone's cooperation and ideas for the packet. Permission from the Illinois Bicentennial Commission has already been granted to use their bicentennial logo on our IASC stationery. The stationery will be printed soon and hopefully, all of you will see it and appreciate what the emblem means.

A third project is in the idea stage. It would be an essay contest open to all council members of IASC member schools. A subject would be chosen and an essay of a specified length would be written. There would be prizes and the winning essay would be published in the REPORTER, and sent to the Governor of Illinois and possibly the President of the United States for recognition.

There are several projects planned for the IASC. You are a part of this organization, which means you are entitled to express your opinion! Speak out — tell the committee your reactions to our ideas. Send all feedback to Linda Fuchs, 1707 Fayette, Washington, IL 61571.

If you want something to be done, tell us about it. That is why the committee was formed. Think about America's 200th birthday, and then say "Why not?"

Introducing "Uncle Paul"

Paul Mueller, recently appointed to be Promotional Sales Director for the IASC, has begun to build an inventory of various IASC imprinted souvenirs.

By December, he will have the IASC workshop T-shirts for the Conference on Student Views, which will sell for $4-$4.50, and IASC pins for $5.00. Also in December, "Uncle Paul" will be sending out flyers to member schools explaining a system of ordering T-shirts and other souvenirs by mail.

By the 1976 convention on May 6, 7 and 8, he hopes to have pins, charms, convention T-shirts, three ring IASC notebooks, booklets and publications on parliamentary procedure, and if possible, publications by Earl Reum, including the Student Council Compass.

Uncle Paul will be selling promotional items and student council resource materials at all IASC functions, and possibly some district conventions. The Executive Board hopes that proceeds from this year's sales can be used next year in expanding the inventory.

"May the experiences of student council weld within you the metals of Citizenship, Scholarship, Service, and Human Understanding which constitute Student Council Leadership"
—Earl Reum

District News

Eastern District

The Eastern District executive board met on September 10 to discuss plans for the October 9 workshop and the November 13 convention.

The workshop was held at Neoga H.S. from 4:00 to 7:00 P.M., including a meal at 6:00. Consultants for the workshop were Mr. Ed Phelps, IASC Executive Secretary, and Bill Carlson, IASC President.

The convention for the Eastern District will be at Eastern Illinois University in Charleston. Candidates and discussion group leaders are still needed.

Kickapoo District

The Kickapoo District's executive board met September 23 in Champaign. Items of business discussed at the meeting were; final plans for the November 1 workshop, particulars on the convention in March, and also discussed was the possible need for district workshops between November and March.

The workshop on Saturday, November 1 is to be held at Paxton H.S. It will cover Parliamentary procedure and leadership training, and is scheduled to run from 9:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. There will be a mock meeting to demonstrate parliamentary procedure. The duties of each officer are to be discussed, and there will be leadership training.

Prairie Eight District

During the summer, the Prairie Eight District executive board met once at Lake of the Woods, near Champaign. The main purpose at this meeting was to plan the district workshop to be held in Serena.

The Prairie Eight District workshop was held Saturday, September 20 at Serena High School. Featured speakers were Phil Hoyt, IASC first vice-president, and Fr. Robert Buday from Benet Academy. About 60 delegates from schools in the Prairie Eight District attended. Officer meetings were conducted for the officers and representatives, and discussion groups were conducted on parliamentary procedure, assemblies, fundraisers, and bicentennial projects. After the formal workshop, there was a cookout and a dance, followed by an executive board meeting.

The Prairie Eight District convention is to be held on Nov. 6 at Kankakee Community College. Plans for speakers and other details are being made. The facilities for the convention include a recreation hall, banquet room, and an auditorium for general sessions.

North Central District

At the convention of the Northwest District last spring, it was decided that because of problems with communication and transportation in such a large district, it would be better to split into two new districts.

Through the work of DeKalb and Sycamore high school student councils, the convention for the North Central District was planned and held on September 25, at Northern Illinois University in DeKalb.

Nearly one hundred delegates from sixteen schools attended the convention. Grant Bogle, president of the DeKalb High School student council presided over the meeting.

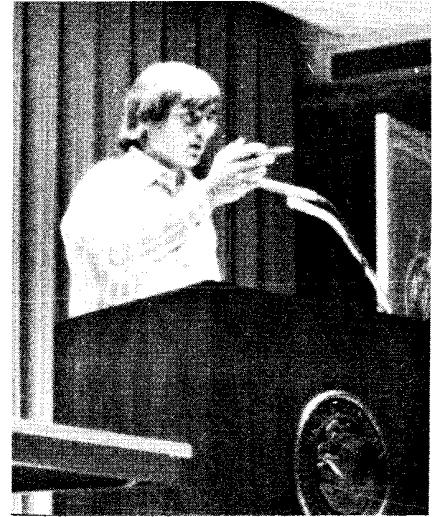

Bill Carlson, IASC president, spoke on the purpose of districts and how districts can plan activities to bring people together with common interests and common goals. He also touched on the functions of the IASC, what it can do for districts, and in turn, what districts can do for local councils.

A constitution originated by DeKalb High School, and based on constitutions of other districts, was reviewed and passed after making several changes.

In the afternoon, the Executive Secretary of the IASC Mr. Ed Phelps, gave a short talk on leadership and qualities of leaders.

Officers elected at the convention were: Treasurer, Lynn Bonaguro; Secretary, Scarlette Johnson; Vice-President, Kevin Mulvenna; and President, Peter Johnson from Sycamore High School. One of Peter's goals mentioned in his campaign speech was "To be the most active district in the state."

The meeting was then adjourned and schools met in their respective sub-district groups to elect a representative from each area to serve on the district executive board.

DeKalb student council president Grant Bogle presides over the first North Central District convention.

I.A.S.C. Spotlight

Which state board member is always seen with a smile on her face? (Ever since she got her braces off.) Who can be seen driving down the streets of Elk Grove in a brown station wagon at all hours of the night? Who is the all-time McKendree women's champion in fozzeball? The answer to these questions is who else but our beloved treasurer, Lynn Larson, the red-headed wonder who is a senior at Elk Grove High School.

Besides being active in student council all four years in high school, Lynn was the president of her class for three years, a cheerleader for two, chairperson of their prom as a junior, a member of the yearbook staff, in quill and scroll club, and an announcer for girl's gymnastics.

She loves to play pinball machines, fozzeball, listen to good music, and play in any sports, especially water sports. Lynn also likes animals (except cats), dancing, game shows, small towns, Iowa, people, getting letters, having money, little kids, and "Babies that don't cry all of the time." (Which may be reason she used to work at a children's clothing store.)

Around the end of November, after the NED convention, Lynn decided she might like to run for IASC treasurer. She and her advisor (Mr. Aldrich) talked about the possibility often.

Lynn wanted to be treasurer because she wanted to meet people and get involved in IASC activities. She wanted to see how other districts are organized and she hoped she would be able to help student councils in Illinois.

She was encouraged by friends in student council and by members of her family. When that big moment finally came Friday night at the convention — was she ever happy she had decided to run!

As treasurer this year, Lynn is having new membership certificates printed, and giving each IASC member school a packet containing information on IASC functions, constitutions, state officers, and where to look for various resources. Also, this year the membership roster is being kept on computer cards. Each school has a separate card telling how active the school is in IASC functions, and other information about the school. One of Lynn's challenges as treasurer is to keep the executive board within the 1975-76 budget for the IASC.

Lynn says the only big problems she has had so far this year are with communication between district treasurers and herself, and keeping membership from decreasing. One of her biggest goals this year is to have a big boost in membership.

Lynn's conception of the role of student government in Illinois is for it to enable students to get involved in school situations, and to have a voice in administrations and the government.

Although she still isn't sure what she wants to do after leaving high school, Lynn has been considering a junior college, general courses, accounting, and data processing. She wants to work at a job where lots of traveling and working with people is involved.

Anyone thinking about running for treasurer next year, according to Lynn, should consider the time involved, have a lot of knowledge about the IASC and its functions, know how to communicate, and be able to keep records and files straight.

Lynn's advice to student council members is to "get involved, try to meet people, and to do your job the best you can."
